Concrete demand in Australia

A proxy for construction materials volumes

Industry concrete demand in Australia is forecast to stay at high levels of demand for the next five years

Macromonitor Forecast Concrete Demand across all Australian construction markets, million m³

- ~1% CAGR in concrete volumes forecast from FY2014 to FY2019
- Growth in RHS&B activity and in non-residential activity to offset decline in resources sector engineering work and softening in dwellings
- NSW to maintain high levels of activity
- Infrastructure investment in Victoria over time
- Queensland, WA and SA broadly steady

Outlook for FY2016

(as announced at FY2015 results, 27 August 2015)

Boral Construction Materials & Cement

- Focused on maintaining FY2016 EBIT broadly in line with FY2015, excluding Property. Property earnings contribution uncertain
- Restructuring and improvement initiatives and continued strength in Sydney market needed to offset depressed Queensland market, subdued RHS&B activity and further tapering off of LNG project volumes
- Pricing is challenging but committed to improving price and margin outcomes

Boral Building Products

- Expected to maintain similar EBIT in FY2016 to FY2015 reported EBIT
- Improvement initiatives to offset housing activity coming off peak and earnings impact of 40% post tax equity accounted share of Boral CSR Bricks joint venture

Boral Gypsum

- Expect further underlying performance improvements; Sheetrock® product volumes should continue to grow
- Synergies to strengthen in FY2016 and expected to exceed cash costs associated with expanded portfolio and technology roll-out

Boral USA

- Expect further increase in earnings in FY2016 on increased housing activity; in line with projected increase to ~1.2m housing starts in FY2016¹
